1975 COACH OF THE YEAR

The fact that Phil Johnson received Coach of the Year honors last season was no fluke by any stretch of the imagination. A first for the 27 year old franchise and a much deserved award for the 34 year old Johnson.

In his first full season with the Kings he made believers out of his players and the fans that poured into the Arena in record numbers. Phil worked his dozen athletes into a well-disciplined and team-oriented club. The results were five men scoring in double figures, a 44-38 record and the first playoff spot since 1967.

While Johnson called occasional plays from the bench he relied mainly on his two backcourt aces to run the offense, Jimmy Walker and Nate Archibald. Phil wanted and demanded the system work his way, a system he felt would win for the team. Like a general standing up for his troops Johnson protected his players when he felt an injustice was being administered. For those efforts he received 34 technicals, outdistancing his fellow coaches by an unspeakable margin.

The 1975-76 season offers Johnson an opportunity to continue developing the Kings into a highly respected team. His chances of repeating as Coach of the Year are slim unless of course, the Kings would become NBA champions. "It would take extreme effort, an injury free season and luck to reach the goal of World Champions", says Johnson. "However, we can always feel there is a good chance during any season as the Golden State Warriors proved."

Phil is quick to realize his goals and objectives are simply not possible unless the players believe in him and themselves. When they do, as evidenced last season, their efforts can result in an outstanding year.

Johnson is a native of Grace, Idaho. During the summer he usually vacations out West with his wife Ann and two sons, Mitchell 8 and Nate 6. Prior to joining the Kings Phil spent three seasons as assistant coach of the Chicago Bulls and three years as head coach at Weber State.

DAN SPARKS

The Kings assistant coach spent most of his first year in the league on the road scouting college talent and other NBA teams. Whenever possible he joined the Kings to aid Coach Johnson with his scouting reports.

Sparks, 29, a native of Bloomington, Indiana, attended Vincennes University for two seasons and then finished his college career at Weber State. While at Vincennes he received all-Conference honors and was voted the school's MVP in 1966. At Weber State he also earned MVP honors in 1968 and was voted Outstanding Player in the Big Sky Conference by UPI the same year.

The 6-7 Sparks played two seasons with the ABA Miami Floridians before entering the coaching field. In 1962 the Vincennes Trailblazers won the national junior college championship, an event Dan is always happy to talk about.

Dan lives in Overland Park with his wife Beverly and three year old son Scott.

Height: 6-2 Weight: 180
Birth Date: 6-16-46
Birth Place: Lynwood, California
High School: St. Pius X (Lynwood)
College: Loyola (Calif.)
Residence: Costa Mesa, California
Pro Experience: Seven years
How Acquired: Selected from San Diego by Portland in expansion draft, May 11, 1970. Traded by Portland to Chicago for cash and a future choice October 14, 1973. Traded to New Orleans for John Block on November 11, 1974. Traded to Kansas City with Ollie Johnson for Nate Williams February 1, 1975.

Adelman is a seven year veteran who has had his ups and downs with numerous clubs ... not personal peaks and valleys but rather team directions ... as a member of the New Orleans Jazz last season before coming to the Kings in a trade, Rick's club possessed the worst record in the league, the trade then sent him to a playoff bound team and it was like getting out of jail ... tough defense and aggressive play have made Adelman a valuable commodity regardless of which roster he's on ... for the Kings he saw action in 18 games for an average of 6.7 minutes ... although his scoring total was low, his presence on the floor paid dividends in other areas ... top offensive night was nine points vs Seattle on April 2, 1975 ... previous to hooking up with the Kings he played 12 games with Chicago and 28 with New Orleans in the same season ... capable of running a club's offense as he demonstrated for three years at Portland ... 1970-71 was best scoring year at 12.6 ppg while 1971-72 produced 413 assists, a career high ... also averaged 30.6 minutes a game ... seen action in three playoffs with three different clubs; San Diego, Chicago and Kansas City ... lives in Costa Mesa, California during off-season with wife Mary and two children; Kathryn 3 and R. J. 1 expecting their third in May ... received Masters degree in history at Loyola of California this summer.

How Acquired: Second round draft pick 1970

Nate deserves top consideration for "Comeback Player of the Year Award" after playing in only 35 games the previous season due to Achilles tendon injury ... Tiny was only Kings player to see action in all 82 games in 1974-75 ... he finished campaign with 26.5 average, best among guards in league and fourth best in NBA ... also completed the season with third best assist average (6.8) and fourth best free throw percentage (.872) ... played in his second all-Star game in Phoenix and three times has been named to NBA all-Star team selected by writers and broadcasters ... Tiny is on third of seven year contract which he inked following his record breaking year in 1972-73 ... in that season he led the league in total assists (910) and assist average (11.28) as well as scoring average (34.0), minutes played (3681) and points scored (2719) ... he was also the first guard in NBA history to score over 1000 field goals (1028) in a single season and established a record of 14 consecutive games in which he handed out 10 or more assists ... his great quickness and tremendous acceleration with the ball make him extremely difficult to defense ... his goal again this season is to reach the playoffs ... he can score at will but unless the club wins the personal accomplishments mean nothing to him ... scored his career high 55 points against Portland on February 2, 1972 ... last season's high was 41 vs Portland on January 21, 1975 ... Tiny loves the game and plays year round ... spends his summers in New York helping out youngsters and playing in various leagues ... one of the biggest drawing cards in the league because of his scoring ability, passing, speed and penetration ... attended DeWitt Clinton high school in New York City ... hobbies include making tapes and collecting records.

Enjoyed fine rookie season playing in 67 games ... came to the Kings as the club's second round selection in 1974 ... Len's 67 NBA contests were just one shy of his collegiate total in three varsity seasons ... "Kos" is the first seven footer in franchise history ... he started one game for Kings vs Phoenix and responded with 10 rebounds in 25 minutes ... not considered a scorer but has a fine hook and jump shot to keep defense honest ... best offensive night was seven points vs Houston on December 14, 1974 ... extremely strong player at 245 pounds, he gives many pivot men problems when they try to back him under the basket ... played in Southern California League during the summer months gaining experience and confidence and averaged over 10 boards ... should help this season by spelling Lacey for longer periods ... ranks as the No. 10 scorer on Tennessee all-time list ... shot 54 per cent from the field his senior year ... earned all-Southeastern Conference honors his sophomore and senior campaign and was voted Volunteers MVP two seasons ... did not try out for basketball until eighth grade ... makes his home in North Kansas City with wife Laura.

Was the hub of Kings offense last year and his response was major reason for clubs success ... Sam led the league centers in assists with 428, a 5.3 average ... he also finished third in league rebounds, 14.2 and seventh in blocked shots, 2.07 ... in addition to his league categories Sam was the third leading King scorer, 11.5 ... his season high 23 points came at the expense of Atlanta on March 1 when he hit 10 of 14 and 3 of 3 from line ... missed only one game all season due to swollen big toe vs Phoenix ... for the second consecutive season Sam totaled over 1000 rebounds (1149) ... last season (1973-74) he grabbed 1055 boards and scored 1119 points and became only the third player in franchise history to reach those 1000 plateaus ... Sam led club in steals in 1974-75 with 139 and in blocked shots with 168, and in minutes played, 3378 for a 41.7 average ... rated as one of the best outside shooting big men in the game ... likes to use the glass on most shots ... played in his first all-Star game last year in Phoenix after being selected by vote of league coaches ... enjoys tennis during off-season ... joined 15 NBA players in June tour of Japan, also spent time in California vacationing ... makes his home in North Kansas City with wife Arlene and daughter Gretchen.

Any successful franchise must have strong support from its ownership as well as its fans. The 10 men who own the Kings are deeply involved in Kansas City business and would like nothing better than to bring a championship trophy to Kansas City.

Their desire to build a winning franchise has resulted in the acquisition of the club's first and second round draft choices the past three years. The signing of thee top college players is positive proof that they intend to do everything in their power to field a top notch club.

Local ownership and local involvement go hand in hand. In the case of the Kings, that community involvement is multiplied 10-fold.

KINGS FRONT OFFICE

JOE AXELSON

Joe heads into his seventh season as the Kings president and general manager. Axelson has little trouble selecting his most exciting and rewarding season as general manager since the 1974-75 campaign was the first one resulting in a playoff spot.

One reason for the clubs recent success is the fact that Axelson has been able to sign all seven Number One draft choices. These players in turn created a strong nucleus with which to build a franchise.

In addition to his daily office routine, Joe spends much time functioning as a member of the NBA Board of Governors. This summer he was also on the four-man team that negotiated with the Players Association. He also introduced the league's new playoff format which was approved last year by the Board of Governors.

The NBA's 1973 Executive of the Year received a Journalism degree from Northwestern University. He then spent 6½ years in the Army and was discharged as a captain. While in the service Joe played and coached on various post level teams. He also spent two years in Alaska working as a special service officer.

Axelson has also worked as a newspaper sports writer and radio broadcaster. He spent two years as public relations director for the NAIA and two seasons as tournament director of the Bowling Proprietors Association of America, before returning to the NAIA as assistant executive director.

To build a winning franchise requires patience and luck. Axelson has exhibited both qualities since becoming general manager and the results are apparent. "Our philosophy of building a franchise is based on patience. It's our belief that good drafting, good coaching and patience are the keys," said Axelson just prior to last year's playoffs.

With a taste of those playoffs still lingering, it is doubtful the status quo will change.

LARRY STAVERMAN

The Kings assistant general manager and marketing director is a familiar sight at all home games. During halftime of each contest Larry enters center court to conduct festivities that include women's free throws, drill teams, dance teams and shooters looking for prizes.

In addition to lining up the Kings' promotional activities Staverman is involved in radio and television sales. He works with the Kings various sponsors in developing marketing ideas for their products. He also spends many days on the road scouting college talent.

The seven year front office veteran has an extensive background in basketball. He spent two seasons with the Kansas City Steers and in 1962 was selected to the all-ABL team as a forward.

Staverman, 6-8, also earned a living as a player in the NBA for five seasons doing time with Baltimore, Detroit, Cincinnati and Chicago. After retiring, he headed into the coaching field. Following two seasons as assistant coach at Notre Dame he joined the pro ranks once again only this time in the American Basketball Association as the first head coach of the Indiana Pacers.

Two years ago he was appointed to the Board of Overseers at Thomas More College, his alma mater. The Kentucky native enjoys tennis and golf during the summer months and activities such as swimming that involve the family. The Staverman family includes wife Joyce and six children; Sharon 14, Michael 12, Katherine 11, Theresa 10, Robert 9 and Lisa 4.

ELISE CHILDERS

Elise begins her seventh season with the Kings as business manager. She directs her work toward the club payroll, insurance and numerous bookkeeping tasks involved in operating a professional sports franchise. She also sets up the teams complex travel schedule at the beginning of each season and monitors it for possible changes due to flight cancellations or severe weather.

Elise is a Kansas City native. She moved to Cincinnati in 1969 to join the Royals staff and returned when the club moved to Kansas City. The Kings-Royals is not the only club Elise has worked for. She spent two seasons with the Kansas City Steers of the ABL, the city's first professional basketball team. She also worked for Starlight Theatre and the NAIA before associating herself with the Kings.

BRUCE SLOAN

Bruce joined the Kings organization as Director of Public Relations in 1972 when the club left Cincinnati. His responsibilities include supplying information to the media, keeping up-to-date statistics for each game and arranging player interviews and appearances. He also pens the yearly game program and media guide, as well as Kings Court—a monthly four page newsletter, and club releases. Bruce was instrumental in establishing the summer clinic program that is sponsored by Wonder Bread and Hostess Cakes.

Sloan attended the University of Kansas and graduated in 1969 with a degree in Journalism. At Kansas he played three seasons of varsity basketball and co-captained the Jayhawks in 1969. That same year he was a draft choice of the Philadelphia 76ers and the United States Army. As a result Bruce spent two years in the service, part of which he served in Korea. While in the Army he was assigned to special services and was a member of the all-Army and Armed Forces teams that produced trips to Europe and the Middle East.

Bruce and wife Laura make their home in Raytown, Missouri. They have one son, David, who recently celebrated his first birthday.

JUDY MARTASIN

Judy is a six year veteran in the Kings office. She works with Kings' Goldcoaters in compiling their season ticket point totals, as well as new season ticket holders in helping them select locations in Kemper Arena. In addition, she handles a variety of other duties and is a valuable asset to the front office operation.

Judy left her hometown of Covington, Kentucky to follow the team to Kansas City and certainly has not regretted the move. For it was in Kansas City where she met her husband Mick. The Martasins make their home in south Kansas City.

TOM HALL

The Kings Director of Ticket Sales is in his second season with the club. Tom coordinates the efforts of the Kings' Goldcoaters in selling season tickets throughout the community. During the season he also makes arrangements for large groups to see the Kings at reduced rates.

Hall possesses an extensive background in group and ticket sales. He spent four years with the Kansas City Royals as Director of Group Sales and Promotions before moving over to the Kings. Two of Tom's biggest assets that create an appealing atmosphere for large groups to attend a game are his knowledge of the community and his enthusiasm with which he approaches his work.

Tom and wife Georgeanne live in Shawnee Mission with their son Brian who is approaching one year. Tom enjoys working in his yard manicuring the greenery, a skill he learned from the master of lawn care George Toma, Royals head groundskeeper.

Hall is a graduate of Pembroke Country Day School and Drury College. He served four years in the Navy specializing in combat photography and photo reconnaissance.

TOM HOPKINS

Tom Hopkins will be handling the Kings play-by-play for a second season and if the action gets anymore exciting than last year, he may be speechless. The quick-tongued Hopkins not only calls the furious action on the floor, but also gives listeners unusual insight into crowd reactions and incidents that befall the club during its travels.

Should a player hastily leave the court chasing down an errant pass and get lost in the crowd, Tom can be found standing on his chair or out in an aisle searching for a better vantage point.

During the summer months Hopkins enjoys golf, make that thrives on golf. In June he spent a week in Chicago at the US Open, covering the event, not participating, for the Kings flagship radio station, KMBZ.

Prior to joining the Kings the Chicago native worked for WDAF radio and KCMO radio in Kansas City and WBZ radio in Boston. Tom and wife Susanne have one son, Jason, who is one.

DAVE AXELSON

Dave joined the Kansas City operation of the Kings during the summer after spending last season working for the club in Omaha. This year he will assist the Voice of the Kings, Tom Hopkins, by providing color commentary throughout the season. He is also responsible for the sale of advertising in the program.

Axelson attended Miami of Ohio and graduated in 1973. Before joining the Kings he worked as a sales representative for the Omaha Hilton Hotel.

Dave and wife Sharon make their home in Prairie Village.

DONNA NORRIS

Donna executes a number of jobs in the office that range from season ticket bookkeeping to selling season tickets. She is in her second full season with the Kings after a 10-year stint with the International Paper Company where she was employed as a bookkeeper.

The Overland Park resident was born and raised in Kansas City. Being a sports enthusiast, she was glad to see the Kings move to town and even happier to be involved with the organization.

STEPHANIE HARPER

Stephanie joined the Kings organization during last season's playoffs. She assists Tom Hall in his work with the Goldcoaters and handles the updating of leads for potential season ticket holders. Although not an avid basketball fan when she started with the Kings, the playoffs made Stephanie a quick believer.

She is a native of Oklahoma and attended Northwestern State in Alva, Oklahoma majoring in Elementary Education. Stephanie worked six years for the Plaza Bank and Trust Company prior to her association with the Kings. She has two stepsons, Todd — 10 and Christopher — 8. Stephanie and her husband, Michael, live in Fairway.

BILL JONES

A vital part of any professional team is its trainer, and the Kings certainly have one of the best in Bill Jones. Billy not only keeps the club healthy, but also coordinates plane and bus schedules while on the road. Fortunately last season was a mild one in terms of serious injury for the Kings. However, Bill still contended with bruises, strains and the ever-present flu bug.

Jones earned his physical education degree at the College of Ozarks following his high school days at Hackett High in Hackett, Arkansas.

From 1961 through 1968 Jones was head trainer for the Kansas City A's. When the A's moved to Oakland, Billy also went west for one season. He returned to Kansas City in 1969 and spent the next four seasons with the Kansas City Royals. In 1972 he retired and entered private business. He currently owns a pharmaceutical firm, B. J. Laboratory Company.

Bill makes his home in Shawnee with wife Theresa and daughters Angela 15, Connie 12 and Jennifer 5.
